

Question 974) - A man confesses to the right of another and immediately utters, "InshaAllaah."
What is the ruling?

A: He owes nothing. The addition is such that it removes the statement from being a confession and makes it as if it was never uttered.

~ al-Quduri ~