

Question 1309) - A man usurped a land and built a building or planted trees. What is the ruling?

A: The usurper must uproot the trees/demolish the building and return the empty land to the owner. If that will however damage the land, then the owner may pay him for the building/tree free of the earth and assume possession over them.

~ al-Quduri ~