

Question 2311) - Can the fighters receive amounts in addition to their booty shares?

A: It is permissible for the commander to reward them during fighting and may announce, "He who slays an enemy may keep his spoils."

He may also tell a particular expeditionary force, "I set aside for you a quarter after the fifth is taken out."

This is before the booty is taken to Darul Islaam. Once there, rewards may not be given except from the Fifth.
