

Question 1281) - Is a gift valid if compensation is stipulated?

A: Yes. In that case taking possession on both sides are required. When both have done so then the deal is correct. However, it will be regarded as a sale. Hence it may be returned due to defect or right of sight and the right of pre-emption will be enacted where applicable.

~ al-Quduri ~