

Question 1778) - If the owner says, 'This is my son,?'* and remains firm on his statement or says, 'This is my freed-slave,?' or calls him, "O my freed-slave," is the slave free?

A: Yes, these expressions are treated as explicit declarations of freedom.

* Meaning that when it is possible that the slave could be his son" Where not, is discussed next.

~ al-Quduri ~