

Question 2380) - A man made a bequest for another for a third of his clothing. Two-third got destroyed. The remaining third equals a third of the estate. What is the beneficiary entitled to?

A: A third of the remaining clothing.*

* If they are of different kinds. If they are all the same then the ruling is the same as in Dirhams.

~ al-Quduri ~